

RACE DECLARED OFF; BOATS WENT TOO SLOW

The Last Race for the American Cup Was Held Today in Light Wind.

WEATHER MISTY

Little Wind Was Felt, and the Boats Drifted Along at a Slow Rate of Speed.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)
3:30.—The race was declared off, owing to the failure of the yachts to finish within the time limit.

Highlands, Aug. 27.—With an air that was light the Reliance and Shamrock started at eleven for the fourth race of the America cup series. Two the Reliance has won and the other declared off owing to the yachts being unable to finish within the time allowance.

Lipton Confident.
Sir Thomas is confident that the Shamrock will win out today's contest and said "We will make a game fight for today's race." He said just before the preparatory gun was fired, "With a light wind contest I have strong hopes for a win."

Iselin Sure.
Managing Owner Iselin said, "Three straight." Heavy laden clouds hang over the sea, but they contained more water than wind. There is no promise of anything but a drifting match in a thick mist. There is no promise leeward but a drifting match in a thick mist. The yachts were leeward of the line when first gun was fired.

Southeast Course
The course is southeast. Both yachts got over the line on a starboard tack. The Reliance gained through very slowly. At 11:25 the Shamrock tacked to port and three minutes later the Reliance followed. The yachts crossed the line both badly handicapped; the Reliance 11:02:45; Shamrock 11:03:47.

Reliance Leading
12:03.—At twelve-thirty the Reliance was leading by three minutes. Wind was about six knots an hour.

Wind Is Feeble
Highlands.—Because of the lightness of the wind the revenue cutters kept the excursionists far from the racers. The start was a bitter disappointment to Lipton, whose boat suffered a fearful defeat in getting over the line. The only hope of the challenger now is in splitting tacks and picking up a favorable slant of wind.

Boats Maneuver
12:33.—The Shamrock crossed the Reliance's weather and the American tacked to port.

12:35.—Both tacks to starboard. The Reliance's lead is over three minutes. It is a procession with the defender in the lead.

1:45.—The yachts rounded the outer mark about 1:35.

2:45.—The Shamrock has just picked up coming through the haze. She is far astern of the defender. The wind is freshening.

Are Sore in Scotland
Glasgow.—The Scottish press is exceedingly ill-natured over the Shamrock showing. The Scotoman says: "Away with the incorrigible, boasting Lipton, whose sole qualification is that he can foot the bill. A reasonable yacht club should take the matter in its hands."

DENY WHITEHEAD CHANCE TO REPLY

Evansville Fair Directors Will No Allow Him a Chance to Answer La Follette.

Governor La Follette is to speak at the Evansville fair on Thursday next. He will doubtless use the same speech that he has delivered to the Chautauqua audiences and county fairs and old settlers' meetings in the past few months. That is, he will attack the last legislature and extol his own virtues. This being Senator Whitehead's home district the senator on Monday wrote to Mr. Gilles asking permission to answer him when he spoke at Evansville. Yesterday Mr. Gilles, director of the fair, wrote the senator that it would be impossible for such an arrangement to be made and suggested that the next day would be suitable for his address. This proposition was not pleasing to Senator Whitehead and he declined to accept their offer.

WISCONSIN LODGE TO BOLT A. O. U. W.

Object to Higher Dues—Increase in Assessment Rates Causes Dissatisfaction.

The Wisconsin Grand Lodge of Ancient Order of United Workmen may decide to secede from the national body on account of the new raise in assessments. This is the same trouble that has stirred up New England lodges to the point of rebellion. The new rate affects members over 55 years of age particularly, and raises their assessments 34 cents per $1,000. This is made necessary, the national lodge asserts, if the order is to be kept out of bankruptcy.

A special meeting of the Wisconsin Grand Lodge will be held at Madison Sept. 24 to consider the matter. The supreme officers who are in attendance at the fraternal congress addressed a meeting of the local members tonight on the new assessment, explaining why it was ordered and urging the members to remain in the order.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The general staff of the army has taken up some suggestions made by General F. D. Grant in regard to additional military protection along the Mexican border. He declares Fort Clark, Texas, unfit for use and recommends a new post not far distant from the present site.

"Hereafter," he says, "more favorable attention should be given to the other border posts in the department."

CRUSADE AGAINST THE BRUTALITY

Berlin Society Asks for Laws Prohibiting Cruelty to Animals.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—The Berlin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is taking the initiative in trying to bring about an international understanding on the subject of cruelty to animals and birds in Italy, with the aim to support the work of the Italian societies and with the cooperation of the Italian government. The plan is as follows:

Conspicuous tin signs will be placed on the railroad cars asking the travelers to aid in suppressing fearful cruelty to animals and birds in Italy by complaining to the mayor or other officials of the place where the acts of cruelty occur. An illustrated circular will be distributed among the travelers explaining the facts as they exist and the travelers will be requested to aid in the movement by refusing to eat song birds at the hotels and boarding-houses, by refusing to buy song birds from children, by looking under the saddles of horses and mules for wounds before renting such animals, and by refusing to give tips to drivers who abuse their animals.

The Berlin society will ask the kindred organizations in Europe and America to cooperate with it in this work.

Were "Sidewiped" by a Runaway Train Near Pittsburg.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)
Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—The third section of the Barnum and Bailey circus, composed almost entirely of sleeping cars, was wrecked near Wildwood early this morning, but none of the circus employees were injured seriously.

The accident was caused by a runaway freight which jumped the track and "sandwiped" the sleepers. The first two sections of the train with animals and tents were just drawing into the city yards and escaped injury.

ALASKA SHOULD HAVE DELEGATE

Opinion of the Senate Subcommittee Is That That Territory Should Be Recognized.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 27.—The revenue cutter McCulloch dropped anchor in Victoria harbor at 7 o'clock this morning from Nome, having on board the subcommittee of the senate committee on territories. The party is all well and reports a very pleasant and profitable trip. The members of the committee are evidently persuaded that Alaska should have a delegate in congress, but probably are not prepared to make him elective.

The construction of a national highway from Valdez to Eagle by the government's aid seems to be regarded with favor. It is believed, too, that the building of a wagon road through the interior from the south coast will stimulate the development of the country to such an extent as to hasten materially the time when private capital will construct a railroad over practically the same route.

The committee also seems inclined to favor taking practical steps to perpetuate salmon and other fisheries by having the government establish hatcheries to be supported by taxes levied on the canneries and other fisheries according to output. The committee spent the day here, going to Seattle this evening where they will separate for home.

AMERICAN OFFICIAL IS MURDERED IN BEIRUT

OSHKOSH REVELS AT FIFTY YEARS

Has a Celebration of the Kind Janesville Should Have Planned For.

Oshkosh celebrated its fiftieth birthday anniversary yesterday. The event was the most spectacular in the history of this part of the state. All day the steam and electric roads brought loads of excursionists into the city until it was thronged. Among the distinguished guests were Neopet Oshkosh and Reginald Oshkosh, son and grandson respectively of the Menominee Indian chief from whom the city derived its name; also Henry Stanley of Hermandville Mich., son of Webster Stanley, the first settler here, the date of his arrival being 1836.

The leading feature of the celebration was the parade. It started at 10:30 o'clock and it was nearly an hour before the last section was in line and had passed. The fire engines formerly used in the city, manned by members of the early-day volunteer departments, an Indian band, early-day bus and a line of the Menominee Indians, a long line of small Oshkosh boys representing Indians and the floats were the especial features of the parade. The turn out of lodges and various organizations was immense.

Vice Consul to Turkish City Is Assassinated While Driving in His Carriage.

ALARMING FACTS

Minister Leishman Has Now Demanded the Murderer Be Punished at Once by the Government.

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Diplomatic circles are much disturbed over the announcement from Minister Leishman, minister from Turkey, that an American vice consul at Beirut was assassinated while driving by Turkish subjects. Every effort is being made to gain particulars of the matter by the state department.

From Minnesota
The vice consul is named William G. Magelssen and he was appointed to the position from Minnesota in 1899. The only report from Leishman on the subject was to the effect that he was murdered while driving. Beirut is in Syria and has a population of 120,000 and is an important trading city.

Demand Punishment
Minister Leishman has made a demand upon the Turkish government that an explanation be made at once and that the murderer be captured and punished at once. It is possible that some of the Mediterranean squadron will be sent to Turkey to

GOLD BASIS FOR CHINESE EMPIRE

France and Russia Are in Favor of Dropping Silver as the Standard.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The report of the French commission appointed to confer with the United States monetary exchange commissioners has been delivered to United States Ambassador Porter. It contains a note from Foreign Minister Delcasse saying France is not prepared to express binding conclusions until she has consulted with the other powers. The report indorses the principle of a gold standard for China and other silver-using countries, but it points out that the plan is possible only under judicious control of the coinage by the government and the creation of an adequate gold reserve, it favors a coinage ratio for the orient, fixing the face value of silver slightly above its bullion value, similar to the American system in the Philippines. The French commission makes reservations on the proposed regular purchases of silver, on the ground that it is impossible to foresee the country's needs for subsidiary and colonial coinage.

Semi-official advices from Russia indicate that the commission appointed by Finance Minister Witte has made similar conclusions.

The French and Russians consider it preferable to establish a uniform silver basis and afterward raising it to a fixed gold value than to begin on a gold standard immediately.

MAY CEASE TO OPPOSE TREATY

Colombian Nationalists May Now Be Led To Join the Conservatives.

Bogota, Aug. 23, via Buena Ventura, Aug. 27.—The new senate officials are nationalists. The election of the heads of the senate from the opposition is probably due to the government's (conservative) desire to reunite with the nationalists so as to face the liberals together next year, on the occasion of the presidential election. The nationalists in the senate are opposed to the Hay-Herran canal treaty, on account of local politics, but an agreement with the conservatives would render their opposition unnecessary and would facilitate the treaty's discussion by the representatives, when the measure shall pass the house. If General Reyes' candidacy for president is confirmed his many friends in congress will change their attitude, which is now against the ratification of the treaty.

MUCH FRUIT IS REQUIRED HERE

Hanley Brothers Ship in Great Quantities of Melons Daily.

Two carloads of watermelons every week received by Hanley Bros., is the quantity of the big fruit that is necessary to supply the wants of Janesville citizens this year. Most of this immense amount has been coming from Muscatine, Iowa, and from Indiana. A few melons came from Georgia during the first of the season but the crop in that section has been mostly a bad failure this year. Some melons are also received from Missouri but these are nearly gone now. The watermelon season will last about two weeks longer and during the latter part of this time the home grown fruit comes in to the market and shipments from the south decrease materially and finally stop altogether.

Sixteen Cars a Day

It took 16 cars of watermelons on Tuesday to supply the demand of the city of Chicago, and these were all at very fair prices. In that city, the price of the fruit varies considerably in carload lots according to the size of the melons, the lighter weights and consequently smaller fruit selling much slower than the heavier weights. During this week there have been some 17-pound lots of melons going in, but these meet with little or no sale. In Chicago they were offered at $50 per car, but there were no sales while one car of 30 pound melons, averaging, sold at $95.

This week the first offerings of other melons have been made, these mostly coming from Illinois and Indiana. When the season gets well under way, the sales will amount to a thousand baskets a week. A few home grown musk melons have put in an appearance. The musk melons usually are found on the market before the watermelons come and they are the last to leave.

Peaches Coming
Michigan peaches are beginning to come in and this is the first week of the season, though there have been some offerings earlier. Hanley Bros. estimate that there will be fifteen hundred baskets sold before the week is over. There are some California peaches at the groceries but these are bought only in smaller quantities. Every year there are many reports of the failure of the Michigan peach crop from various causes and this season was not exception to the rule but when the time comes, the peaches put in an appearance just the same. Reports of failure in this crop were even more numerous this year than usual, yet yesterday a boat load tied up at the docks in Milwaukee which contained fourteen thousand baskets of the Michigan fruit, which showed that there was some of the crop saved anyway.

RAILROADS ARE MAKING CAMPAIGN

Charge of Five Cents Per Ton Storage Will Be Imposed in Milwaukee.

The Chicago & North-Western, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Wisconsin Central railroads yesterday adopted rules similar to those enforced at Chicago regarding the storage at warehouses and depots or less than carloads lots of freight. The new rule, which is to go into effect Sept. 28, provides a fine of 5 cents per ton per day for all freight at depots or on platforms of the railroad companies unclaimed for by the persons to whom it is consigned, after seventy-two hours have elapsed. Notice will be served on all shippers and receivers of the city by the roads today, says the Milwaukee Free Press.

"It is believed that the new rule will result in the roads being able to give shippers and receivers much quicker service than formerly," said James Q. Klapp of the Wisconsin Car Service association, when asked last night as to the effect the rule would have in Milwaukee. "Roads entering Chicago have enforced a similar rule, and it has worked satisfactorily. If persons who receive shipments of goods in less than carload lots find that they will be compelled to pay a storage fee if they do not take them from the depots or platforms before the seventy-two hour time limit expires, they will be naturally be more prompt in calling for goods. As the matter stands now, thousands of pieces of freight are received at the different depots daily. The receiving clerks and delivery clerks must hunt among and handle these packages daily, while, if all freight was called for promptly, it would be pretty well cleaned up every day, and the work of receiving and delivering would be systematized."

It is said that boat lines entering this port are experiencing the same trouble in regard to congestion of freight at their respective warehouses, and there has been talk of the different lines forming an agreement and charging a storage fee for all freight that is not called for by receivers in a stated time. During the fruit season, when thousands of baskets of peaches arriving from Michigan points give the fruit handlers and warehouse workmen all they can do to keep up with their work, the tardiness of receivers has caused much annoyance.

Just how the manufacturers and jobbers of the city will take the new ruling of the roads cannot be determined until after it has been put into effect. Many of the large receivers having ample store room facilities are said to favor the new rule, believing it will go away with the congestion of the freight houses and enable them to secure better and quicker service. It is said that it is the small receiver who often lets consignments stand in the warehouses for several days before calling for them, who will find the rule obnoxious.

BEAUTIFUL PEARL AT BUTTON FACTORY

One Owned by Mr. Roessling Is Over an Inch in Diameter

At the pearl button factory yesterday afternoon, a large beautiful pearl, the property of one of the Roesslings, was being "skinned," as the process of removing the outer opaque covering which sometimes envelops them, is called. Although this pearl is not perfectly round, but is disc shaped, it is beautifully shaded and a valuable specimen. This peculiar covering which is found either partially or wholly surrounding most pearls grows or forms in layers, much like the outer layers of an onion. The substance is of a whitish coloring and must be removed before the pearl is of much value or beauty. It is often found that this covering hides a defect in the shape or surface of the pearl itself. In peeling it off great care must be taken not to scratch the delicate surface which lies beneath.

Three Kinds
The best pearls are found without this covering and they are usually found near the outer edge of the shell and can be felt in the folds of the clam. Then there are "hinge" pearls, which grow out from the shell near the hinge or where the two pieces are joined together and also what are technically called "slug" pearls; these are found near the thicker part of the shell and both of these kinds are attached to it and make the cheaper grades. The supply of shells used at the factory come from the Wisconsin river and are bought from the pearl fisheries.

Rock River Shells Too Thin
The same class of clams are found almost anywhere in Rock river and in most of the inland lakes but the greater part of these shells are too thin to be made into buttons profitably. The Wisconsin river clams have a thicker covering. As soon as the pearl fishermen secure the clams from the river, they are steamed to kill the mollusk, then the pearls are eagerly sought for and whether found or not, the shells are sold to factories, like the Janesville company, to be made into buttons and other articles.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, August 27, 1863.—Our dispatches this afternoon announce that Sumpter is defeated. Every gun has been dismounted and the fort is a heap of ruins. The grand land naval attack was to have taken place on Tuesday. Gen. Gilmore has sent his compliments to Charleston in the shape of shells filled with "snack fire". This is denounced by Beauregard as inhuman warfare, and his sympathizers would call it unconstitutional. When the rebels talk about inhumanity, "remember Lawrence!"

St. Louis, Special to Chicago Journal.—The Democrat this afternoon has a special from Lawrence, stating that Gen. Jim Lane has returned, after killing 41 of Quantrell's men. 133 bodies have been buried at Lawrence. There are 85 widows and 240 orphans.

It is announced in the late foreign news by the steamer Persia that the Archduke Maximilian of Austria accepts the crown of Austria. He will find it rather an uneasy and unstable throne to sit upon.

Queen Victoria On Crinoline.—Her Majesty has addressed the following remonstrance to the ladies: Windsor Castle, August 1, 1863. "Ladies the queen has commanded me to express the pain with which Her Majesty reads the accounts of daily accidents arising from the wearing of the indelicate, expensive, dangerous and hideous article called crinoline. Her Majesty cannot refrain from making known to you her extreme displeasure that educated women should by example encourage the wearing of a dress which can be pleasing only to demoralized taste. —C. LUMBER TRADE

The lumber markets of the Orient and the share which the United States is likely to have in supplying them, is the subject just now of some attention by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics. The Bureau recently received and published reports of American consuls in the Orient which announced the arrival of the first cargo of lumber in the Chinese market by a Russian vessel from Vladivostok. This fact opens the question of future competition for the Oriental market between the American lumber interests on the Pacific coast, on the one hand, and that of the Russians in Siberia and on the Yalu river, on the other. In both cases enormous resources are awaiting development. The American industry of the Pacific coast has the advantage of organization on a large scale and of mechanical equipment unequalled by that of any other field in the world. This is evidenced by the rate of annual production. Unofficial estimates put the annual cut of lumber and shingles of the three Pacific states at 4,600,000,000 feet, of which California supplies 860,000,000 feet, Oregon 3,400,000,000 feet, and Washington 2,300,000,000 feet. At this rate it is calculated that the forests of the Pacific coast will be exhausted in 40 years.

As it would naturally be expected, the Pacific lumbermen have been rapidly enlarging their area and volume of commercial distribution, both in the foreign and the domestic markets. According to figures gathered by the Bureau of Statistics, the redwood shipments from upper California, mostly to San Francisco and the southern coast in 1902 amounted to 260,597,605 feet. In addition to this, the California coast alone in 1902 received 606,102,382 feet of pine and fir, in 1901, 403,245,540 feet and in 1900, 370,258,913 feet. The rate of increase as will be seen by comparison of these figures, is enormous.

Further north on the coast the trade in lumber has been expanding with corresponding strides. Shipments by water alone at Seattle were 564,472,801 feet of lumber in 1902 and 506,964,749 feet in 1901. A movement of almost equal proportions is taking place at points in the interior by rail. In 1902 rail shipments to the interior amounted to 562,175,000 feet and in 1901 to 364,530,000 feet. The number of shingles sent east of the Cascade mountains extending into the territory east of the Missouri river, and in many cases, as far as the lakes, amounted to 5,080,640,000 in 1902, and to 4,485,600,000 in 1901. The traffic furnished to railroads in 1901 aggregated 52,337 cars of lumber and shingles from Seattle alone, and 69,231 cars in 1902.

Rail shipments from Tacoma, including both lumber and shingles were, 3,141 cars in 1900, 4,520 cars in 1901 and 6,026 cars in 1902.

Portland, Oregon, shows a traffic towards the interior by rail, ranking next to Seattle in importance. In the calendar year 1900, 11,986 cars of lumber were shipped from this port, 13,517 in 1901 and 15,878 cars in 1902.

As above figures indicate, one of the most noteworthy facts in connection with the development of the Pacific coast lumber trade is its increasing contribution to the transcontinental tonnage for railroads on the way back from the Pacific coast eastward. The opening of the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific coast lumbermen likewise brings the export trade from the coast into closer relations with the demands of the domestic consumer. The consumer in the Mississippi Valley is directly interested in the progress of lumbering, both in the northwestern states and in the southern states, as main sources of supply. The entire east is chiefly dependent on both of these sources. Consequently all domestic industries and interests, relying on the lumber supply of the future, are concerned with the prospective ability of any foreign competitor to share the foreign markets, and thus to affect the rate of domestic output and its ratio to domestic demand.

The relative importance of foreign to domestic demands, so far as the Pacific coast is concerned, is not easily ascertained. There are, however, a few figures bearing on the subject. The principal mills of the state of Washington for 1902 reported that 386,172,388 feet were sent to coastwise destinations, and 153,115,654 feet to foreign destinations. If this ratio holds good for the coast as a whole, it would appear that nearly 30 per cent of the output goes to foreign and 70 per cent to domestic uses.

From present indications the United States has nothing to fear from her rivals in the lumber trade of the Pacific. Ultimately, the Philippines Islands will no doubt contribute materially to the supply. The trade from the Pacific coast of the United States is now in a strong position.

During the fiscal year, 1902, the United States exported 1,402,499,000 feet of lumber and swan timber, of which $47,000 feet were sent from the Pacific coast. The exports of wood manufactures thereof advanced from $26,000,000 in 1893 to $57,000,000 in 1903, lumber the largest item, increased in value from $9,000,000 in 1893 to $21,000,000 in 1903.

Since 1893 the Chinese Empire, Hong Kong, British Australia, Peru and Chili, have, together, doubled the value of American lumber imported.

THE RELIANCE.

The margin by which Reliance won Tuesday was so great and the weather so favorable to Shamrock that only due regard to prudence prevents the assertion that the race practically settled the outcome of the series. There were, however, short periods, when the wind freshened, during which Shamrock gained on the American boat, so that it is by no means that in a heavier breeze than Tuesday she might come close to victory. Sir Thomas, at any rate, is not the man to admit defeat until his last chance is gone. While there's life there's hope, even after so crushing a defeat as Tuesday's. But barring accidents there is no reason why the country should not have entire confidence in the result. Between the light breezes and fluky winds of Saturday and the spanking breeze of Tuesday Reliance has established her superior sailing qualities beyond much doubt.

IT IS TO HOPE

It is to be hoped that the Republican leaders in Tennessee will decline the alliance reported to be offered them by the Retail Liquor Dealers' association of that state, for the purpose of breaking down those provisions of the state liquor law which provide for local option and prohibit the location of a saloon within a certain distance of a schoolhouse. The right of the people of any county or town to shut out the saloon if they desire to do so is something that cannot be safely challenged. The anti-saloon idea is something different from ultra prohibition, and commands a multitude of supporters where the latter finds few. Let the Republican organization line up, in Tennessee, with the saloon men, and the chances are that they will postpone for a long period the conversation of Tennessee into a Republican state.

THAT MOSQUITO.

The mosquito is bad enough on his own account, but he becomes intolerable when he provokes the builder of smudges to activity. The smudge may be all right in the forest primeval, but in the city it is a nuisance. To be effective it must be almost suffocating, and when it is suffocating it does not confine itself to the particular front stoop that it is intended to benefit, but spreads itself far and wide over the neighborhood, violating the soft, sweet evening air and spoiling the pleasure of every one else except the proud smudge maker. If any one can't stand the mosquitoes he should either go in the house or keep his pocket handkerchief in motion. The latter remedy is unfailingly effective and is offensive to no one.

If Sir Thomas wants to economize time he should start to building the Shamrock, VI and VII.

If Colombia wants to do business with us it should back up that wagon of her's pretty quickly.

It is a little early as yet but how fast do you suppose the Shamrock IV will be.

On that canal proposition Colombia stands pat. It plays a good bluff game.

PRESS COMMENT

La Crosse Leader and Press: It is an insult to a Milwaukee alderman to arrest him for taking a $100 bribe. It insinuates that he is a cheap man and may prevent him getting full rates in the future.

Chilton Times: There is fault found with the governor when he is at home and now a kick is registered because he is absent attending Chattanooga and advertising the state as a nest of corruption.

Racine Journal: To what extent the fair name of Wisconsin has been marred by wholesale charges of corruption of its legislature may never be known. But eastern papers are coupling it with Missouri.

Chilton Times: "Your Uncle Ike for governor" has the sound of harmony about it, but Bob La Follette is making a canvass for a third nomination. Better have Kress, of The Manitowoc Times-Press, killed in and mutualize things.

Hudson Star-Times: The Mariette Eagle-Star suggests Spooner, Stephenson, La Follette and Babcock as a harmony quartet from the state at large to the national republican convention. A very sensible four to unite upon for all who do not get comfort out of a factional law.

Waupaca Post: Many honest men believe Governor La Follette is sincere in his attacks upon the corporations, and honest in his intentions, but some of them are not willing to admit that anyone who does not agree with him may be equally honest and sincere. Such are the conditions which ensue from too close application to politics.

Racine Journal: Numbers of Wisconsin citizens are seriously asking themselves if our county fairs, summer assemblies and old settlers' meetings are to be in the future as this present summer, utilized as opportunities where politicians can abuse and slander all those who are so constituted they cannot agree with them, as well as ferment race hatred.

Appleton Post: Something of a question has been caused in Milwaukee by the discovery that barrels of varnish designed for the public use contained some four gallons less of that commodity than they should contain. However, Milwaukeeans will continue to be comparatively happy as long as the beer barrels, kegs and schooners contain full measure.

Madison Journal: Wisconsin is heartily behind President Roosevelt. He will be endorsed to the full at the next state convention. As a matter of fact, it is not unlikely that the president's name and influence will be aggressively felt in that body. It is a conservative name and influence, and such is needed in Wisconsin at the present time. If any one has an interest in checking the wild craze toward populism, President Roosevelt is the man.

Syncause Post-Standard: Mr. Schwab insists that his withdrawal from the steel trust was due solely to "nervousness." Whose?

ASKS DOCTORS TO END MISERY

Father Pleads With Them to Take Life of Suffering Son.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 27.—"Give the boy carbolic acid and put him out of his misery," was the prayer of the father of little Joseph Hammer to the physicians operating upon the youth, who had been run over by an Iron Mountain train. The boy is but 14 years old, and his arm was taken off at the shoulder and his leg a few inches below the body. Should he survive his injuries he will be a hopeless cripple, a burden to himself and friends. He cannot wear an artificial leg, as there is nothing to which it can be attached, nor can he hold a crutch under the stump of his arm. As both the lost arm and the leg are on the right side, this makes his case even the more pitiable.

CANNING FACTORY HARD AT WORK

THE CORN CROP NOW STARTING BEING HANDLED.

THE OUTLOOK IS VERY GOOD

Hohenadel Canning Company Has Just Started Its Rush Season.

Preparations are going rapidly forward at the Hohenadel Canning factory for the receiving of the corn crop of 1908. It is planned to start the canning this year by the latter part of the present week, or early in the next. While the present crop is not expected to be a record one, it is thought to give promise, from present indications, of a good sized crop. Fred Bieleharz, foreman at the factory has recently returned from a trip among the growers and says that the outlook is good. Two million cans are stored in the lots and these will not be sufficient to hold the tons of corn that will be taken care of at the Hohenadel factory. The machines that transform it from its natural state to the finished product are now being put in readiness for the work soon to begin.

Reducing the Corn.
The most interesting part of the process, perhaps, is after the kernels have been removed from the ears in the cutting machine, then through an apparatus called a "slicer," the use of which is explained by its name, from here to the "mixer" and next to the machinery that fills the empty cans.

All of this intricate apparatus is automatic and runs with a certainty that is remarkable, and its workings are almost like in the results obtained. The filling apparatus feeds a continuous string of empty cans that slide down a long chute, and the regular rate is an average of 70 cans per minute, or when the machinery is at work, an average of 60 cans per minute is maintained. There are two separate "lines" of machinery for this work so that twice the given number of cans are continually being filled and closed in that space of time.

Twelve Closed at Once.
The full tins are now run along a carrier and go through the "fluxer," the object of this apparatus being apparent, and then, twelve at a time are moved onto the "capper" where the tin tops are put in place, and the cans soldered. They are then carried to the "upper" which closes the tiny air hole in the top of the can. This is the end of the first process and the cans are air tight and ready to be cooked in the big retorts or kettles. There are twelve of these and each has a capacity of a thousand cans at one cooking. The cans are lowered into the retorts by being placed in large iron openwork crates, 300 to the crate, and these lowered into the kettles by means of an automatic hoist.

First Sour Kraut Crop.
This week early cabbages are being taken care of at the factory, cut into the proper shape for sour kraut and placed in great vats with brine to cure. The real cabbage crop does not come in until the later cabbages are ready to be marketed.

The company has buyers at a number of the small towns who are at present taking care of the cucumber crop has been contracted for and in other parts of the state large quantities are being secured and brought to the factory, where the first processes of pickle making are also going on.

CAPTURED WILL NEAR SHOPIERE

Escaped Crazy Man Found Working for a Farmer Below the City.

Rev. E. Will, an inmate of the insane asylum who escaped last Wednesday, was found working for a farmer near Sharon, Wis., and returned to the asylum this morning. The man got away while he was with six of his companions were taking exercise in some nearby woods, under the care of two attendants. The grove where the men were taking an airing is directly in front of the institution. The trees are thick here and the ground much broken so that his escape was not so easily detected. Inquiries were immediately made and received and several strange people were heard from but were not the one wanted. Finally word came yesterday from Sharon that the man was in the neighborhood and the superintendent immediately went after him. He was found at a farmhouse a mile and a half below Sharon, where some residents were keeping track of him until the proper authorities were notified.

Insane Man Near Newville.
While searching for Will, word came from near Newville that a strange man had been seen in that vicinity for a week. Mr. Killam went seven miles north of the city and secured the man. He was old, feeble and in a pitiable condition, his clothes being reduced to rags, but no information could be elicited from him. He is thought to be a Pole and is an old man but apparently cannot talk German or English. He is now at the asylum and the superintendent is endeavoring to secure further information as to where the man belongs.

Hyde-Mead.
Dr. E. A. Mead, a former Janesville boy, who has been practicing dentistry at Hebron, Ill., since his graduation from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery about a year ago, was married Wednesday to Miss Lora Hyde of that city. The ceremony was performed at five o'clock and Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Mrs. C. C. Devereaux of Janesville, sister of the groom. Dr. Devereaux, who also attended the wedding returned to Janesville this morning.

PLAIN FACTS AT THE INTERURBAN

POINTED QUESTIONS ASKED OF MANAGER CLOUGH.

STATEMENT AS TO SITUATION

Council Should Leave the Field Open to the Company Who Would Build.

To the Editor:
When the question of granting a franchise for an interurban railway was pending before the common council recently, Mr. Clough, representing the Janesville Traction company, expressed himself as being very impatient at the several delays in acting on the franchise. He asked for speedy action, because, as he said, he was holding high salaried men in readiness to engage in the work of making surveys, plans, etc., as soon as his right to build the road could be assured to him, and that the road would be completed this fall as far as Milton and Milton Junction.

He further stated that he had the road financed, and that all he lacked was the franchise. When the franchise was granted he expressed himself as being satisfied with it, and his actions indicated that he was perfectly content.

The franchise was granted June 8 last—nearly three months ago. What steps has Mr. Clough taken since that time toward building or commencing to build his road? So far as can be ascertained not one thing has been attempted. Not a single survey has been commenced. Not a man has attempted to acquire right of way for the company in this city or elsewhere. The line of the road is no nearer being determined than it was three months ago. No applications for franchises have been made either in Madison or Stoughton, or in any of the towns lying between Madison and Janesville. In fact nothing whatever has been done except to acquire franchises in Janesville and Edgerton, sit down on them and keep others out of the field.

Now that the time is approaching when they must lose the rights granted, and when it has been practically demonstrated that they are unable to carry out the contract offered to them they come again to the council and ask that although they may be relieved from giving the pledge of their good faith in so doing, to-wit: that they be permitted to accept the franchise without being compelled to give a bond to build the road as called for by the franchise as passed.

Of course the reason for all this delay is patent. As one of the representatives of the road has stated Mr. Clough has not the money to build the road and he has not been able to get it. It now develops that the road was not financed as the common council was led to believe when acting upon the franchise, and this delay asked for is merely to afford time in which to get money.

It is to be hoped the council will insist upon the retention of the provisions incorporated by it in the contract to insure the building of the road.

If Mr. Clough is not ready to go ahead then let his rights expire, and let the field continue open to such as see fit to apply. If Mr. Clough gets his money he can come in with a new application, which can be acted upon in two weeks' time, but do not foreclose the right to all others for another year to come. We want an interurban road and want it right away.

A CITIZEN.

GARRY NOT TAKEN TO GREEN BAY YET

Was Given a Stop-Over at Barnett on Way to the Industrial School Today.

B. S. Garry, the horse thief who was sentenced to Green Bay reformatory by Judge Fifield, was mixed up in a train wreck this morning. Turnkey Graves was taking him to Green Bay, leaving this city over the North-Western at six-thirty o'clock. When they reached Barnett they found the line tied up by a wreck between Barnett and Chester, making it impossible to proceed further.

Graves accordingly took Garry to the jail at Barnett, locked him up, and telephoned to Sheriff Appleby to notify him that it would be impossible for him to return before tomorrow as he could not get Garry to Green Bay before this evening. It is customary for the Green Bay authorities to send a man to this city to escort prisoners, but for some reason they asked that they be relieved of the task in this instance. The delay in taking Garry to the industrial school was caused by waiting for a time when the turnkey could conveniently leave the city.

ROCK COUNTY MAN TRIES TO ESCAPE

Life Convict Makes Break at Waupun—Murdered Two Women Several Years Ago.

Matt Bitson, a convict who was serving a life sentence at Waupun, attempted to escape the guards yesterday while loading a car in the "bull pen." He headed for a corn field, but was captured after a short hunt.

Bitson was sent up from this county for the murder of his wife and Mrs. Hern. After killing them he set fire to the house. T. S. Nolan, who was his attorney, received a letter from him a few days ago, asking Mr. Nolan to write to his sister.

IS CURB LINE ESTABLISHED?

EAST STREET RESIDENTS OBJECT TO NARROWING STREET.

THINK IT SHOULD BE WIDE

Also Think Street Should Be Graded Before Any Improvements Are Made.

Second warders living on East street are aroused over the possibility of being forced to submit to an alleged imposition. Except that the imposition has to do with the established grade and curb lines of the street, there is some difficulty in defining the exact ground for contention. The matter will probably be given an airing in the common council next Monday night, and an adjustment may be arrived at that time.

When one of the property owners took steps a few days ago to construct a curbing in front of his residence the trouble began. Employing the curb line established by the street assessment committee he began to dig the necessary ditches at a point which seemed to other property owners to be very near the center of the road. There are at present no curbs on the street, and the road extends from sidewalk to sidewalk, giving a wide roadway. The line established by the assessment committee gives a considerable reduction.

Are Waiting Settlement
Upon a verbal protest from residents of the street work on the curbing was immediately suspended pending the arrival at an agreement of some sort. Arguments are now in progress on street corners and elsewhere and there has been talk of taking legal steps if further attempts are made to set the curb line out in the street. Here is where the debaters fail to get together.

Some of the property holders say that all they ask is that the curb line be so established as to leave the street its full width. Others have taken this occasion to call attention to the grading of the street, and say that it sinks at the corner of East and First streets so badly as to form a sink hole which is a nuisance in wet weather. They ask that the street be graded so as to bring the drainage at the lower end of the street, where it joins Milton and Milwaukee avenues.

The point upon which the various disputants insist is that the curb and grade lines should be established before improvements are made which may have to be remade when the street is paved and curbed at some later date.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The weather conditions for the past week have been generally favorable both for growing crops and for curing grain in the shock. Practically no rain occurred until near the end of the week, when showers were general over the state. The dry, warm weather dried shocked grain very quickly, and a large amount of threshing was accomplished during the week. The yields of wheat, rye and barley are generally considered satisfactory, although not quite so good as last year. The value of the barley crop is somewhat lessened by discoloration. Oats have proved rather disappointing, both as to yield and as to quality of the grain. Rust appeared in some sections on this crop early in July and gradually became general over the state. The yield per acre has been greatly lessened, while the grain is light and lacking in feeding value.

Corn. The interest in the corn situation now centers in the corn crop, and although the weather during the past week was very favorable and a very decided improvement in the crop is noted, the outlook for a good crop is by no means promising. Should a killing frost occur on the average date, which ranges from September 10th in the northern to September 15th in the southern counties, very little sound corn will be harvested.

Special reports received from correspondents in regard to the condition of corn may be summarized as follows: In the southern counties corn on well drained rich soil will mature by September 10th; this probably comprises one-fourth of the crop. About one-half of the crop will require from ten days to two weeks longer; while the remainder will not be out of danger before October 1st. In the central and northern counties practically the same conditions exist, except that the crop is generally from five to ten days later than in the southern counties.

Potatoes. Early potatoes are being dug and the yield is mainly satisfactory, although generally not so large as anticipated. Later potatoes are doing well.

Tobacco. The weather during the week was favorable for this crop, and where not matured considerable improvement resulted. The crop as a whole is not maturing evenly. Some fields have been harvested, while others will require ten days to two weeks to fully mature.

Minor Crops. Pastures continue exceptionally good. Sugar beets are doing well. Buckwheat is in full bloom and promises to be a good crop.

Fruit. Apples will be a light crop, although of fair quality. Cranberries are ripening and picking will begin on some marshes by September 1st. The crop was materially shortened by the June frost, especially in Waushara county and in portions of Wood county. The quality of the fruit is excellent, the berries being generally large in size.

Southern Section. Westly, Vernon county: Wheat, rye and barley all good crops; oats light, on account of rust; with good weather corn will be safe by September 20th.—E. B. Homstad.

Liberty Pole, Vernon county: Corn on new ground and on clover sod doing well; will be safe from frost by September 20th; tobacco being put in sheds.—Sidney Higgins.

St. Lawrence, Washington county: Weather generally fair and warm; threshing in progress; rye, barley and oats yielding good average crop.—John F. Kramer.

SHERIFF TELLS OF JAIL ATTACK

WET SHIRT TURNS ITS COURSE

Witnesses at Danville Identify Men on Trial as Leaders and Members of the Mob and Tell of Their Movements.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 27.—Sheriff Whitlock has told for the first time of being shot during the attack on the county jail by the mob which sought to lynch the negro prisoners July 25. The story came out during his testimony against eight men who are on trial for taking part in the attack.

The bullet, the sheriff said, struck just over his heart. It was a glancing shot and was prevented from piercing the flesh by his shirt, which was wet with perspiration and folded. He said the bullet made a big bruise, which caused him to be sick for a time. He was also struck on the chest and shoulder by three stones.

The jury to try the rioters was secured late yesterday afternoon. All the day was taken up in finding four men to complete it, and nearly every citizen called pleaded that he had already formed an opinion on the case. The four men finally selected were J. C. Randall, W. J. O'Leary, Isham Thompson and Con Leverich.

Identify Prisoners. The witnesses placed on the stand by the state before the adjournment were mostly those who testified during the trial of Windfield Baker. The testimony of the sheriff and his deputies was substantiated by Dr. Sims, Attorney S. F. Scheeler, Noah Jones, Charles Lord and Mr. Wilson, concerning the presence of the eight defendants and the parts taken by them in the attack on the jail.

Jones said he had talked with William Redwine, one of the defendants, in the presence of Lord concerning the wound on Redwine's leg. The witness claimed that Redwine said: "I was shot during the trouble at the jail, and the bullet that struck me also struck the man behind me. More than that, I had hold of the rail."

Shoots at Leader. Mr. Wilson said he saw Jack Walton urging the mob to attack the jail, and Deputy Runyan testified that Walton had hold of the rail. Runyan also said he saw Adam Murray urging the crowd to use the battering ram, and the officers inside the jail office held a consultation concerning the advisability of shooting him, as he appeared to be the leader of the mob. Deputy Newlin, he said, finally shot at Murray through the battered steel door, his bullet striking the man a glancing blow on the forehead, knocking him down. Runyan said he also saw Baker shooting at the sheriff, and saw Clay Biddle throwing stones.

Denies His Identity. When he went to arrest Biddle the latter denied his name, claiming it was Jones, and then Johnson. He finally confessed his right name, and a sister said the defendant had told her he was shot in the leg at the jail.

The witness saw Henry Slade shaking blood from his fingers after being shot, and calling upon the mob to lynch the sheriff. He saw the defendant Thomas Bell throwing stones at the sheriff.

Deputy Van Vickle testified that Slade shouted to the prisoners at the upper windows of the jail that they would soon be released, as the mob intended to blow up the jail with dynamite.

Minister Quits Family. Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 27.—The Rev. Thomas Sullivan, Congregational minister, formerly of Chicago, has disappeared leaving a wife and family.

Steal $20,000 in Gold. Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 27.—Four men held up the Featherstonhaugh mines in Atlin, Alaska, and stole nearly $20,000 worth of gold dust.

Train's Fast Run. Springfield, Aug. 27.—The sixty-nine miles between Litchfield and Decatur were run by a Wabash passenger train in sixty minutes.

Unique Decision. A Maryland justice of the peace in deciding an action against a railroad company for killing a cow near a road crossing, decided the case in favor of the plaintiff for the reason that "the defendant had no sign up at the crossing."

TO TAKE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

ORDER FROM HIGH OFFICIAL

Believed to Be Plan to Prevent Members of the Typographical and Bookbinders' Unions Making Good Their Threats to Strike.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Great surprise was created at the government printing office, where recently there has been so much trouble between the unions and the government over the case of Foreman Miller, when Public Printer Palmer ordered all the heads of divisions to appear before a notary public and take an oath of allegiance to the United States government. The order will be extended to take in not only the heads, but every employee, union or nonunion, in the government printing office.

Mr. Palmer said he based this order at the direction of a high government official whose name he did not give, but it is believed to be Secretary Cortelyou of the department of commerce and labor. It is believed Cortelyou got his directions from the president, who is taking this step to emphasize the supremacy of federal law over any labor union law.

Bewilders Union Men. The union members cannot account for the move, yet they feel they have been dealt what they will find to be a hard blow if they attempt to carry out any of the numerous threats to strike if the government does not dismiss Miller on account of the personal charges now pending against him.

The oath of allegiance which is taken by all the members of the typographical union and by the members of other unions is held by some persons to be in direct contravention to the oath of allegiance to the United States government. The significant part of the typographical union oath is the following:

"I hereby solemnly and sincerely swear that my fidelity to the union and my duty to the members thereof shall in no sense be interfered with by any allegiance I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious."

One Explanation. While nothing can be gained from any official here beyond the statement that this action is merely taken to put the per diem employees on the same basis as those employed by the year, it is confidently believed here that this action will enable the government to hold every member of a union who attempts to strike guilty of a violation of his oath. All the employees of the government printing office hereby are put in the same relation to the government under the oath to serve it faithfully as the employees of the other departments.

Believe Miller Will Stay. The threats to strike are not considered sincere, but with the strikers under an oath of allegiance to the United States government a refusal to work because of the continued employment of Foreman Miller would put them in the position of considering the allegiance to their union greater than to the United States government. In that event the president would be justified in summarily discharging them. There is strong feeling in the unions and elsewhere that Miller will be continued in office despite the charges against him, for the present at least or until the trouble has subsided.

The oaths administered are those prescribed for government clerks by the civil service laws.

THE OTHER MAN

By FREDERIC RIDDLE

Copyright, 1902, by J. P. Lippincott Company.

CHAPTER IV.

Over the Karroo Desert the stars paled and the dawn broke swiftly. From every kloof there floated pale wisps and wreaths of silver mist, out of which the flat-topped kopjes rose like islands in a ghostly sea. The surface of the Mool river was hidden by a thicker pall of this same fog.

With the coming of the sun there came a merry breeze, which swept kloof and kopje clean as with an invisible besom, and anon the waters of the little river sparkled and rippled in the glorious sunshine of a new day.

But it was yet cold—horribly cold—reminding one of the hill country of North India. Gradually the sun gets in his work, and the chill of the air gives place to a genial warmth which before the meridian will turn to an oppressive heat.

An antelope and its mate came trotting to the water's edge to drink, but ere quenching their thirst sniffed the air suspiciously, and then galloped off down-stream, their hard little hoofs rattling like castanets over the stones. A hundred yards off the wild creatures halted and gazed timorously back.

On the bank, by the gray embers of a dead fire, lay a ghastly thing, huddled shapelessly in a heap, the clothing soiled and dusty, a great reddish-brown stain on the khaki jacket, the ends of a waving brown beard matted and clotted with the blood which had dripped and oozed and discolored the light, clayey soil.

Richard Dysart! Alive?—perhaps. Dead?—if not, he surely soon will be unless succor comes.

Down the little kloof through which the old wagon had creaked so cheerfully the day before there stole like shadows two dusty Kaffir boys. Timidly they gained its shelter, and cautiously peered through the spokes of the heavy wheels.

They point eagerly at the recumbent figure, and chatter to each other in their queer, clicking speech. Then, looking fearfully around and over their shoulders, they advance, and Joey drops on his knees beside his master.

"Baas, Baas!" he whines, and with thumb and forefinger raises an eyelid to see if there be left any life.

The blue and parched lips move, and there is a whispered moan: "Water! Water!"

The other boy looks on stupidly and stolidly, but Joey dashes to the wagon for a tin cup, which he fills at the stream, and raising the head of the sorely wounded man, manages to tilt some of the blessed liquid down his throat.

Catching sight of the neck of a flask protruding from the sufferer's pocket, Joey sends some brandy chasing after the water, and the vivifying effect of the cordial is almost magical.

Dysart opened his eyes, drew a few shuddering breaths, and then managed to sit up, supporting himself with one hand while he pressed the other to his wounded side.

At sight of the blood-stained jacket and the dark pool which discolored the ground there were more excited Kaffir clicks, while the poor, faithful, half-famished blacks watched their master anxiously.

Slowly and painfully the details of the tragedy came back to his throbbing and fever-parched brain. His gaze sought the ground on either hand, then he groaned:

"Robbed! The damned hound!"

Reaching out his hand for the precious flask, he took another gulp of its contents, and then made as if he would rise, but fell back, helpless as a child. His limbs were cramped and stiff with the night's exposure, to a freezing temperature, and he was besides, awfully weak from loss of blood.

But Dysart knew what must be done if he would save his life, and so he whispered—

"Strip me, Joey."

Tenderly as women the boys did his bidding. Slowly and amid many smothered exclamations of pain they got his belt and jacket off; then his heavy flannel shirt, and a silk undershirt—the last refusing to budge until all around the wound had been well wetted. Then was disclosed an angry red puncture just below and a little to the left of the right armpit. There was a larger and more jagged wound at the back, where the heavy-calibre bullet had ploughed its exit, lodging between the flesh and the clothing, whence it dropped to the ground as the last garment was removed.

Joey picked it up with a click and a grin of astonishment and handed it to Richard, who coolly slid it into his trousers-pocket. Under his directions the wound was washed clean, and then carefully bandaged with the silk shirt torn into strips.

By this time the warming sun had done its genial work, and Dysart's legs were thawed out. So, by dint of both boys bracing themselves and tugging on his sound arm he managed to stagger to his feet and totter to the wagon-on, where, after much boosting and groaning on their part and his, he was made fairly comfortable on the heavy mattress which covered the bed of the conveyance. Then the wounded man collapsed.

The days ran into weeks, and the weeks mounted into months before the lonely adventurer began to mend. Fever wasted him to a skeleton; malaria sapped his vitality. Help there ing a company to work the new claim, and arranging for the shipment to London and the insurance of the remainder of his stones, he was able to make a few cautious and casual inquiries about the man of whom he was in search. Not much could be gleaned, yet enough to convince him that the trail led in the direction he was himself most anxious to pursue—namely, to England.

He left Cape Town nine months and more behind the other. For clues he possessed a rather hazy personal description which might or might not be trustworthy, a dirty canvas bag and a 44-caliber bullet.

On board the steamer running around from Durban to Cape Town Richard Dysart still further added to his stock of information.

He was accosted on deck one morning by a certain Sergt. Cupples, one of the special force detailed to patrol in plain clothes the various steamship lines on the watch for contraband diamonds and smugglers thereof.

To his surprise, he learned that his own movements since arriving at Ladysmith were perfectly well known, and this led to some confidential talk concerning the devious ways of the I. D. B., which proved especially interesting to our friend.

"What moonshining is to the southern states of America, what counterfeiting is at home and abroad, what the slave trade was a few years ago, so is the present day illicit trade in diamonds in South Africa," said Cupples. "In the estimation of legitimate mine owners and traders it may be set down as 'the sum of all villainies.'"

Despite the utmost vigilance of the Cape police and an army of secret agents, stones are annually smuggled out of the country to the tune of thousands of pounds.

"How can the authorities manage to cover such a vast field with any degree of success?" inquired Dick.

"Well, you see, the camps and productive fields are all known, mapped and located. These outlets are watched and their output is pretty accurately known from month to month. So also with the towns inland and the coastwise cities like Durban, Delagoa Bay, Port Elizabeth and Cape Town itself. The 'fences' are also known and kept under closer surveillance, and there is one of our men on every outgoing steamer."

Dysart nodded; much of this was already familiar to him.

"But suppose a new field is discovered—a man might become legitimately possessed of stones in that way?" he ventured.

"You are referring to your own case," said the police agent with a smile; and then, in answer to the other's mute query: "We know all about you, Mr. Dysart. In the first place, you declared and proved your claim according to law; in the second place, Moses Plish 'gave you away' before you'd been out of his place an hour!"

"The devil he did!" exclaimed Richard. "I wonder if he did as much for my predecessor?"

Sergt. Cupples looked at him narrowly from under the peak of his steamer cap, took a few turns along the deck, and then said quietly:

"I'm on that case myself. Better let me have the whole story, Mr. Dysart. Being a mine owner, you are as much interested in this matter as I am."

"And a good deal more," said Richard quietly. So, in the seclusion of a little nine-by-twelve stateroom on the Lanark Castle, the story of the grim tragedy on the Mool river was for the first time told to the ear of a white man.

At its conclusion:

"We can run him down, Mr. Dysart—that's certain. But whether we can hold him is another matter. You can charge highway robbery with intent to kill, and it's 20 years in Portland prison if he's convicted. But I question whether the loot would come under the statute of illicit diamonds, because at the time of the seizure the claim had not been entered and proved."

"That's quite to my liking," exclaimed Richard, who had begun to fear that his private vengeance might be balked. "It's a personal matter between him and me, and I'd like to deal with the rascal myself in my own way. You have no clew as to his identity?"

"Not a particle beyond the personal description of old Plish," was the regretful reply.

TOM JOHNSON FOR GOVERNOR

NAME CLARKE FOR SENATOR

Gold Man Is Selected to Contest for Toga, Free Silver Is Ignored and Delegates Declare for Local Issues in Campaign.

School Commissioner.....J. H. B. JONES
State Auditor.....CHARLES KLOER

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 27.—A unanimous nomination for governor of Ohio was the first visible sign of the thoroughness with which Tom L. Johnson routed his opponents at the state Democratic convention. With his forces waning until only three small counties were left to support his candidacy John L. Zimmerman of Springfield withdrew from the lists at the last moment, leaving the field clear for the Cleveland mayor and forcing to the front as the only remaining issue the question of a senatorial endorsement. In this matter Johnson dominated and the delegates decided to select a candidate for the United States senate, making John H. Clarke of Cleveland their choice.

Declares for Local Issues. Although the fight lay between the old factions, "gold men" and "silverites," for control of the state Democracy in the next presidential campaign, significance is attached by the leaders to the fact that in selecting Clarke the convention places in the field as its champion a man who in the first Bryan campaign led the gold wing of the party in Ohio, and in the further fact that in its resolutions and platform the Democracy to-day steered wide of free silver and the other tenets of Bryanism.

With an anti-Bryanite selected as candidate for senator and Bryanism glossed over or ignored in the resolutions adopted, Johnson further intimates that Ohio is breaking away from the Nebraskan by the announcement that in the coming campaign local issues only will be fought out, and the endeavor will be to down the state Republican machine rather than to exert any influence in national matters.

Invitation to Bryan.

For the first time in six years Bryan's name was mentioned in an Ohio Democratic pow-wow only once, and that was when the Johnson men sought atonement for the slights put on the man from the Platte by inviting him to participate in the impending campaign. The resolution to this effect was put perfunctorily and was carried amid cries of derision.

Much adroitness was displayed in ignoring the silver question, the resolutions, in the drafting of which Louis Post of Chicago, an old Altgeld leader, had a finger, avowed the devotion of the convention to the principles of the Kansas City platform, enumerating them in the following paragraph:

Ignore Free Silver.

"We accordingly condemn colonization and imperialism, denounce trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, repudiate government by injunction and oppose financial monopoly, together with every other legalized monopoly and special privileges. Adhering to these principles, we repeat our condemnation of all efforts to renounce or ignore them."

Not a word of free silverism, and then the resolutions go on to urge the transcendent importance of state over national issues in the coming election. The mention of silver was so lacking that the most radical gold men in the convention found no fault with this part of the resolutions.

...REMEDY FOR HAY FEVER...

After Trying Other Treatments Hyomel was Used With Perfect Success.

Prior to the discovery of Hyomel the only advice a physician could give to a hay fever patient was to go away from home but now any one who expects the disease, can, if Hyomel is used, stay at home without fear of the annual attack of sneezing, watery eyes, and other discomforts.

J. F. Forbes, a well known western railroad man, whose home is at McCook, Neb., writes, "I have never had relief from any remedy for hay fever, even temporarily, until I discovered the merits of Hyomel. I will always recommend it whenever occasion requires."

There is no offensive stomach dosing when Hyomel is used. It is a reliable remedy for the cure of all diseases of the respiratory organs and is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, so that the air taken into the throat and lungs is like that of the White Mountains or other health resorts where hay fever is unknown.

King's Pharmacy, who have the local agency for Hyomel, advise all who are subject to hay fever to begin its use two or three weeks before the time of the annual appearance of this disease and thus prevent the attack. If, however, Hyomel is not used until the sneezing and other disagreeable symptoms have shown themselves, it is necessary to use the treatment more frequently at least half a dozen times daily, and Hyomel Balm should be rubbed into the nostrils both morning and night.

The fact that King's Pharmacy agree to refund the money to any hay fever sufferer who uses Hyomel without success, should inspire confidence in its power to effect a cure.

Why Pay as Much

for an inferior beer?

Schlitz beer costs twice what common beer costs in the brewing. One-half pays for the product; the other half for its purity.

One-half is spent in cleanliness, in filtering even the air that touches it, in filtering the beer, in sterilizing every bottle. And it pays the cost of aging the beer for months before we deliver it.

If you ask for Schlitz, you get purity and age, you pay no more than beer costs without them.

BANKERS SUE ESTATE
TO RECOVER $1,000,000

Cassett & Co. Charge That Their
Manager Misappropriated Stocks,
Bonds and Cash.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 27.—That Howard T. Goodwin, who in December of last year committed suicide in the Arcade building had during a period of years misappropriated cash, stock and bonds to the extent of $1,000,000 or more is declared in a bill in equity filed by Cassett & Co., bankers and brokers. Goodwin was the manager of the firm at the time he committed suicide.

Suit was begun in Common Pleas court on behalf of the brokers. It was directed against Lizzie K. Goodwin, executrix of the estate of Goodwin, and asked that she be directed to render an accounting of all property left by her husband. It was alleged in the bill that Goodwin had during his career as the trusted manager of the concern made away with large sums. The only in the alleged shortage was the news of the alleged shortage a surprise. It was known at the time of Goodwin's death that he had been plunging in the stock market. Goodwin's death was a tragic one, and happened under circumstances that gave at first promise of a suspicion of foul play, a shadow that soon disappeared.

A few days ago the affairs of Goodwin again came before the public, when his collection of rare books was advertised for sale at auction. The catalogue revealed the fact that tens of thousands of dollars had been expended in gathering together a rare collection. It included among other things three volumes of a special edition of Dickens contracted for at a cost of $130,000. There were to have been twenty-five volumes in the collection, and $10,000 had been paid down at the time of delivery. Each book is laid in a satin-lined box. Thousands of other volumes of special editions of rare first editions, some of them costing thousands of dollars, were in the library.

PILLAGER INDIANS
THREATEN TO BEGIN WAR

Agency Officials Have Begun the Removal of Their Household Effects to Nearest Railroad Town.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 27.—Reliable advices from the Leech Lake reserve state that an outbreak of the Pillagers and Bear Island tribes is imminent and that agency officials have begun to remove their household effects and families to Walker, the nearest railroad town. Late reports confirm the earlier statements and say that an outbreak of the blanket Indians also is threatened and that the white families are leaving the agencies. War dances are in progress.

The tribal king of the Pillagers, who has just been released from jail, is inciting the young bucks against the whites and is actively supported by the younger element among the tribal chiefs, who are anxious for a fight. The Pillagers have been sullen and ugly for two months, and the situation has just been brought to a head by the tribal troubles. All the younger Indians are well armed and are the most ignorant and the most warlike of all the reserve tribes. Chief Flat Mouth and Bug Ahah Ke Shish, powerful chiefs, are arguing for peace, because he is old and regarded with contempt by the younger element.

Walker reports show that an outbreak has been expected for several weeks. The situation is regarded as critical. The Pillagers are deserting the agency district and are gathering in the remote forest portions of the reserve adjacent to Bear Island. They are open in their contempt for the white soldiers and express confidence that they could destroy them in fair fight.

The Pillagers were the leaders in the outbreak of 1898, in which Major Wilkinson and several soldiers of the Third Infantry were killed at Sugar Point in a battle with the tribesmen led by Old Bug.

GREAT COMBINE IN PRODUCTS OF FARM

Wheat Growers Aim to Hold Their Stocks Until the Price is Forced to $1.

Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 27.—A territorial charter has been granted by Secretary of the Farmers' Co-operative Shipping association, with headquarters at Topeka, Kan., but with stockholders in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, including 2,500 farmers, all of whom are wheat growers. The capital stock is $200,000, the incorporators being S. H. Allen and James Butler of Topeka, C. B. Hoffman of Enterprise, H. H. Shull of Argonia, Robert Milto of Stafford, all residents of Kansas; J. G. Golings of Blinton, Neb.; Dr. F. Englehart of Rising City, Neb.; H. H. Signor of Numa, Ok., and Frank Wright of Billings, Ok., the last being the Oklahoma territorial agent.

The real purpose of the organization is to attempt to hold the present year's wheat crop until the market is forced to $1. It is stated that each of the 2,500 stockholders will hold his individual crop and that new members are being secured daily.

Attempts to regulate freight rates will also be made.

ELABORATE ARRANGEMENTS
BEING ARRANGED FOR SHOW

Manager Myers Has Stacks of Guns and Many Flags and Bunting Out.

Manager Myers means to make the opening attraction of the opera house for the season of 1903 a notable affair. His selection of the musical comedy, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," has given him a most opportune subject to spread himself upon. The corridors of the lobby will be filled; in fact are now, with stacks of guns and the entire hall will be draped with flags and bunting making a gala sight. At the entrance is a large flag and every pillar and all the boxes as well as the balcony are being draped with bunting. The "Johnny" company brings with it a life and drum corps and tomorrow noon they will play. They also are part of the show proper. Then, too, a druggist in the city has made arrangements to scent the entire building with some of his choice perfume. Whether it will be Giants of Battle or Shooting Stars has not yet been decided. However, the entire house will be in gala attire for the occasion. The sale of seats is also progressing well promising a good house.
